Cari Ferraro is a writer, calligrapher and bookmaker. She received a BA in Literature and Creative Writing from UC Santa Cruz, and has studied with many of the leading teachers in the calligraphic and book arts fields. She has taught writing and calligraphy for many years. Her instructional book, Beginner's Guide: Calligraphy and Illumination, was published by Walter Foster in 2007. She has fulfilled design commissions for 30 years through her business, Prose and Letters. Cari believes calligraphers are uniquely qualified to marry the verbal and visual arts, and seeks through teaching to bring artists to a deeper experience of creativity using traditional and innovative scribal skills. Her special interest is the origin of writing and our modern link to it through the development of "handmind."
